

CNS

Stat One has extensive experience across multiple central nervous system indications from early phase to late phase studies. Our team provides insight into the development of CNS products while also aiding in navigating the FDA.

The Stat One Team has assisted numerous clients in the Central Nervous System (CNS) space and is adept at taking clients through the necessary steps for gaining approval for these types of submissions. Statistical experience includes assisting in study design, FDA interaction, SAP generation, and analyses from start-to-finish.
